

Klur wine estate during winter

samedi, 09 janvier 2010

Winter is a rest period for the soil, the plant and the winegrower; in this season, the sap and the water go very deep under the earth, it's the same for our energy, an introversion time. It's a season on which it feels so good to be doing nothing, like the nature...WE DREAM ABOUT IT... Actually, the riesling and gewurztraminer grand cru are still fermenting in the wine cellar and we have to check it, nearby, we have to prepare orders to be exported, we label bottles due to the sales of the end of the year, at the office, we are handling the accounting, the customer contact, prospects, we are preparing the win -fair for spring 2010. At the same time, outside, we go on pruning and rooting out, we juggle with the good dates of the "calendrier des semis" and with the snow or extreme cold ...
